QTILITY™

Extend Your Information Leverage Your Investment

QTILITY INTEGRATED GATEWAY ALLOWS YOU TO EXTEND YOUR UNSTRUCTURED INFORMATION TO THE WORLD AND LEVERAGE EXISTING SYSTEMS.

Organizations Breathe Information.

Each day, information is brought into organizations to create value for customers, is processed and then sent out, sometimes fuelling the interaction with suppliers and customers. The information can be in the form of structured data like purchases or unstructured like specifications and engineering diagrams. Both need to be managed and exchanged between disparate internal systems, external organizations and individuals.

Realize the ROI

ERP and CMS systems have been purchased on the promise of seldom achieved ROI. Leverage those internal systems to streamline the process of exchanging information with vendors while saving time, labor and costs.

Ease the Information Congestion

Qtility Integrated Gateway offers an easier, more cost effective way to exchange documents with vendors. It provides an easy way to automatically extract and import documents during the process of interacting with vendors such as RFPs and submissions.

QTILITY Integrated Gateway

Qtility Integrated Gateway allows you to seamlessly and automatically exchange documents with external organizations such as vendors without the cost and overhead of customized portals.

Leverage Your Existing Applications

QILITY™

Qtility Software Ltd., founded in 2005, is a provider of highly specialized CMS integration services and software. Our specialization and deep expertise can be trusted to empower your business by leveraging existing systems to extend the reach of your information systems and increase the efficiency of your business processes.

What We Can Do For You

The Qtility Integrated Gateway allows you to accomplish secure communications between your existing CMS applications, already integrated to ERP systems, and your external value chain participants such as vendors, service providers, engineering firms and partners, without the expense, inconvenience, barriers and overhead of portals.

We integrate tightly to existing CMS systems with simple “snap-ins” for user interface features and standardized use of supported programming interfaces. That way your application stays in support, your security stays intact and you don’t need to augment your support staff to maintain it.

Your internal staff can use applications they have already been trained on to send documents or entire projects to internal or external parties without the need for server clogging and error-prone email attachments. The authoritative versions of documents stay where they are and new content can be fed back into the proper systems, automatically.
